How to Use This Journal

The 90-Day Tasting Wine Journal is designed for the serious wine enthusiast who wants to move beyond casual drinking and build a disciplined, analytical approach to experiencing wine. Whether you are managing an active cellar, developing your palate for WSET or sommelier study, or simply determined to deepen your knowledge over the next 90 days, this journal gives you the structure to do it properly.

Your journal contains four types of pages, each serving a distinct purpose in building your wine knowledge and collection records.

The Wine Cellar Inventory Log pages (pages 4-18) are your cellar's permanent record. Use them to document every bottle you own — its producer, vintage, varietal, storage location, quantity on hand, and purchase price. Update these logs whenever you add or remove bottles from your cellar. A well-maintained inventory protects your investment and ensures you always know exactly what you have and where it is.

The Detailed Tasting Template pages (pages 19-158) are the heart of this journal. Use one page for every wine you evaluate. Work through each section methodically: begin with Sight to assess color, depth, and clarity; move to Nose to identify aromas and intensity; then evaluate the Palate for body, tannins, acidity, and finish; and conclude with your overall rating and food pairing notes. Writing in complete sentences — not just checked boxes — will sharpen your tasting vocabulary far more quickly than any other method.

The Vintage Comparison Chart pages (pages 159-168) are for vertical tasting analysis. When you taste multiple vintages of the same wine, use one chart per wine to record how each year differs in color, aromas, body, tannin structure, acidity, and finish. Over time, these charts will reveal how a producer's style evolves and which vintages are peaking or declining.

The Monthly Acquisition and Collection Progress Log pages (pages 169-182) give you a monthly financial and inventory snapshot. Record every bottle you acquire — including quantity, price per bottle, total spend, and storage location — and track your running collection total. Use the Notes section to reflect on your purchasing decisions, budget adherence, and any emerging gaps in your cellar.

To get the most from this journal, commit to completing a tasting entry for every wine you open, regardless of how casual the occasion. The collectors who develop the most refined palates are those who record consistently, not just when the wine feels significant. Aim for at least one detailed tasting entry every two days over the 90-day period — your future self will thank you for the discipline.

Thank you for choosing The 90-Day Tasting Wine Journal as your companion on this journey toward a deeper understanding of wine.

The 90 days ahead of you are an extraordinary opportunity. Each bottle you open is a chance to train your palate, sharpen your analytical thinking, and build a personal archive of knowledge that no app or algorithm can replicate. The collectors and enthusiasts who commit to this kind of disciplined documentation consistently outpace those who rely on memory alone — and you have already made the choice to be among them. Use this journal faithfully, trust the process, and do not underestimate what 90 days of focused attention can do for your relationship with wine.

If this journal has made a difference for you, we would love to hear about it! Please take a moment to leave an honest review on Amazon — your feedback helps other readers find books that can make a real difference in their lives.
